

The New Jersey "Do Not Call List" law should remain as is, and not be weakened for any reason. If it is working well for the good of the people, what would the benefit be to change it for less effective results.

The telemarketers should not have more rights than the residents. If a resident wants the privacy of not receiving solicitation calls, I feel they should have a right to that privacy.